

FACULTY OF PHILOSOPHY

Job title	Senior Research Fellow in Philosophy – Global Priorities Institute
Division	Humanities
Department	Faculty of Philosophy
Location	Trajan House, Mill Street, Oxford, OX2 0AN, UK
Grade and salary	Grade 8: £42,149 - £50,296 per annum
Hours	Full time
Contract type	Fixed-term (4 years)
Reporting to	Director of Global Priorities Institute
Vacancy reference	152922

The role

You will be part of the Global Priorities Institute (GPI), which aims to develop and promote rigorous, scientific approaches to the question of how appropriately motivated actors can do good more effectively. You will conduct advanced research in Philosophy. At least 50% of your time will be spent on topics directly relevant to the Global Priorities Institute’s research agenda, which you will help to set. You will report to the Director of the Global Priorities Institute.

We welcome applications from researchers simultaneously applying to other faculty jobs who might complete a one or two year position at GPI before giving their notice early and taking up a faculty position. GPI is located in Trajan House in central Oxford, a building shared with the Future of Humanity Institute, which is also part of the Faculty of Philosophy, and the Centre for Effective Altruism. We particularly encourage applications from women, black and ethnic minority candidates, as these groups are underrepresented in philosophy in general and at GPI in particular.

Responsibilities

- Develop research questions within a specific context, conduct individual research, analysing detailed and complex qualitative and/or quantitative data from a variety of sources, and generate original ideas by building on existing concepts
- Develop and implement new research methodologies and materials
- Regularly write research articles at an international level for peer-reviewed journals, book chapters, and reviews, as well as internal reports (both alone and in collaboration with other group members).
- Present papers at national and international conferences, and lead seminars to disseminate research findings
- Agree clear task objectives, organise, and delegate work to other members of the team and coach other members of the group on specialist methodologies or procedures
- Share responsibility for shaping the research group's plans
- Act as a source of information and advice to other members of the group on research expertise
- Represent the research group at external meetings/seminars, either with other members of the group or alone
- Carry out collaborative projects with colleagues in partner institutions, and research groups
- Ad hoc teaching and supervision if and when the opportunity arises, insofar as this is beneficial to the postholder's career development
- Assist in the supervision of visiting graduate students
- Contribute as appropriate, in liaison with others in GPI and elsewhere in the Philosophy Faculty, to engagement with the Research Excellence Framework impact agenda

Pre-employment screening

If you are offered the post, the offer will be subject to standard pre-employment checks. You will be asked to provide: proof of your right-to-work in the UK; proof of your identity; and (if we haven't done so already) we will contact the referees you have nominated. You will also be asked to complete a health declaration so that you can tell us about any health conditions or disabilities for which you may need us to make appropriate adjustments.

Please read the candidate notes on the University's pre-employment screening procedures at: <https://www.jobs.ox.ac.uk/pre-employment-checks>

Selection criteria

Essential selection criteria

- PhD awarded either in Philosophy or in a closely related discipline together with equivalent experience and expertise in Philosophy
- Experience of independent research
- Outstanding academic ability
- Genuine interest in global priorities research
- An excellent publication record in international peer-reviewed journals (relative to the applicant's career stage), and familiarity with the existing literature and research in the field.
- Ability to independently plan and manage a research project, including a research budget
- Ability to contribute ideas for new research projects
- Excellent communication skills, including the ability to write for publication, present research proposals and results, and represent the research group at meetings

Desirable selection criteria

- Experience of supervising staff
- Experience of managing a research project
- Experience of actively collaborating in the development of research articles for publication
- Experience of and enthusiasm for interdisciplinary research
- Possess sufficient specialist knowledge of and interest in Philosophy, global priorities research and effective altruism to develop research projects and methodologies within global priorities research

How to apply

Applications are made through our e-recruitment system and you will find all the information you need about how to apply on our Jobs website <https://www.jobs.ox.ac.uk/how-to-apply>.

Your application will be judged solely on the basis of how you demonstrate that you meet the selection criteria stated in the job description.

Applications must include:

- A CV and supporting statement. The supporting statement should be around 300-700 words long and must include a description (and ideally evidence) of your knowledge of and interest in global priorities research of around 100 words. You should also explain briefly how you meet the selection criteria for the post using examples of your skills and experience. This may include experience gained in employment, education, or during career breaks (such as time out to care for dependants).
- A writing sample of your best, most polished work in philosophy, since we will use this sample primarily for assessing your academic ability. The writing sample should be single-authored. It is not important that the topic of the writing sample be relevant to the Institute's research agenda, provided that sufficient evidence of your fit to the Institute is provided elsewhere in your application.
- The details of three referees and indication whether we can contact them now. We expect to contact referees for all longlisted candidates.

Please upload all documents as PDF files with your name and the document type in the filename (for example "Surname_CV.pdf"). Our online application portal can only handle PDF files and so documents in other formats may not be accepted as part of your application.

Details on the selection process

Longlisted candidates will be invited to complete a questionnaire concerning the nature of their interest in effective altruism and global priorities research. Shortlisted candidates will then be invited:

- To submit a research proposal (of no more than 1,000 words) prior to interview;
- To participate in a short work task (involving no more than a few hours of preparation plus a 45 minute discussion); and
- To participate in an interview (again around 45 minutes).

Work tasks and interviews will be conducted remotely, via video link.

We aim to notify longlisted candidates within two weeks of the closing date for applications, and to further notify shortlisted candidates within one month of the closing date. We anticipate holding final interviews in December. We will update our website with timings for the selection process: <https://globalprioritiesinstitute.org/opportunities/>

Your application will be judged solely on the basis of how you demonstrate that you meet the selection criteria stated in the job description.

All applications must be received by midday UK time on the closing date stated in the online advertisement.

Information for priority candidates

A priority candidate is a University employee who is seeking redeployment because they have been advised that they are at risk of redundancy, or on grounds of ill-health/disability. Priority candidates are issued with a redeployment letter by their employing department(s).

If you are a priority candidate, please ensure that you attach your redeployment letter to your application (or email it to the contact address on the advert if the application form used for the vacancy does not allow attachments).

To return to the online application at any stage, please go to: www.recruit.ox.ac.uk.

Please note that you will receive an automated email from our e-recruitment system to confirm receipt of your application. Please check your spam/junk mail if you do not receive this email.

Important information for candidates

Data Privacy

Please note that any personal data submitted to the University as part of the job application process will be processed in accordance with the GDPR and related UK data protection legislation. For further information, please see the University's Privacy Notice for Job Applicants at: <https://compliance.admin.ox.ac.uk/job-applicant-privacy-policy>. The University's Policy on Data Protection is available at: <https://compliance.admin.ox.ac.uk/data-protection-policy>.

The University's policy on retirement

The University operates an Employer Justified Retirement Age (EJRA) for all academic posts and some academic-related posts. The University has adopted an EJRA of 30 September before the 69th birthday for all academic and academic-related staff in posts at grade 8 and above. The justification for this is explained at: <https://hr.admin.ox.ac.uk/the-ejra>

For existing employees, any employment beyond the retirement age is subject to approval through the procedures: <https://hr.admin.ox.ac.uk/the-ejra>

There is no normal or fixed age at which staff in posts at grades 1–7 have to retire. Staff at these grades may elect to retire in accordance with the rules of the applicable pension scheme, as may be amended from time to time.

Equality of opportunity

Entry into employment with the University and progression within employment will be determined only by personal merit and the application of criteria which are related to the duties of each particular post and the relevant salary structure. In all cases, ability to perform the job will be the primary consideration. No applicant or member of staff shall be discriminated against because of age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage or civil partnership, pregnancy or maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, or sexual orientation.

The Global Priorities Institute

The Global Priorities Institute is an interdisciplinary research centre conducting foundational research to inform the decision-making of individuals and institutions seeking to do as much good as possible with their limited resources. It prioritises topics which are important, neglected, and tractable, and uses the tools of multiple disciplines, especially Philosophy and Economics, to explore the issues at stake. It is part of the Faculty of Philosophy.

The research agenda for the Global Priorities Institute is collectively set by the researchers at the centre. It focuses around the question of what one should do with a given unit or resources if one's aim is to do the most good. Examples of the types of questions it includes are:

- How should we compare causes with very different types of benefits? For example, how do we decide whether to spend a fixed budget on (a) malaria reduction, (b) boosting school attendance, (c) corporate campaigns against factory farming, or (d) research on reducing risks from pandemics?
- What is the rational response to the fact that the vast majority of our actions' consequences are unknown (and in many cases unknowable) to us?
- Are deviations from standard decision theory required in cases that involve extraordinarily small probabilities of extraordinarily large payoffs?
- Do the most cost-effective altruistic interventions mainly involve influencing the course of the very far future, or instead focus on more immediate effects?

More information on the research agenda and the Institute's published work to date is available from the website (<http://globalprioritiesinstitute.org/>). Potential applicants are strongly encouraged to consult this additional information before applying, in order to assess their fit to and interest in the Institute.

As described in our research agenda, GPI currently has a particular focus on "longtermism", and is particularly keen to hire researchers who share this interest and would be enthusiastic to contribute to this research program. However, this focus is not exclusive: candidates whose research skills and/or interests lie in other areas of global priorities research are also strongly encouraged to apply.

About the University of Oxford

Welcome to the University of Oxford. We aim to lead the world in research and education for the benefit of society both in the UK and globally. Oxford's researchers engage with academic, commercial and cultural partners across the world to stimulate high-quality research and enable innovation through a broad range of social, policy and economic impacts.

We believe our strengths lie both in empowering individuals and teams to address fundamental questions of global significance, while providing all our staff with a welcoming and inclusive workplace that enables everyone to develop and do their best work. Recognising that diversity is our strength, vital for innovation and creativity, we aspire to build a truly diverse community which values and respects every individual's unique contribution.

While we have long traditions of scholarship, we are also forward-looking, creative and cutting-edge. Oxford is one of Europe's most entrepreneurial universities and we rank first in the UK for university spin-outs, and in recent years we have spun out 15-20 new companies every year. We are also recognised as leaders in support for social enterprise.

Join us and you will find a unique, democratic and international community, a great range of staff benefits and access to a vibrant array of cultural activities in the beautiful city of Oxford.

Faculty of Philosophy

The Oxford Philosophy Faculty has over 150 academic members, all of whom are undertaking teaching and/or research in Philosophy at Oxford. Of these, around 60 hold permanent posts within the Faculty or the colleges; many distinguished philosophers hold posts elsewhere in the University. Oxford thus contains the largest group of philosophers in the UK, and one of the largest in the world. It has a vigorous research culture: Oxford's Faculty of Philosophy performed outstandingly in the 2014 REF, with 51% of overall research activity assessed at the top grade of 4*, ahead of all other UK philosophy departments. The Faculty's research culture is further enhanced by its three large research centres: the Oxford Uehiro Centre for Practical Ethics; the Future of Humanity Institute; and the Global Priorities Institute.

Each year, many distinguished philosophers from around the world visit Oxford to give lectures and seminars. There are over one thousand students studying Philosophy at undergraduate level, always in combination with at least one other subject, and around 100 graduate students, about half of whom are studying for the BPhil or the specialist MSt courses in Ancient Philosophy, Philosophy of Physics and Practical Ethics, and the rest for the DPhil. A list of current Faculty members and their research interests can be found on the Philosophy Faculty website at:

<http://www.philosophy.ox.ac.uk/faculty-members>.

Further information about the Faculty can be found on its website at:

<http://www.philosophy.ox.ac.uk>.

Humanities Division

The Humanities Division is one of four academic divisions in the University of Oxford, bringing together the following faculties: Classics; English; History; Linguistics, Philology and Phonetics; Medieval and Modern Languages; Music; Oriental Studies; Philosophy; Theology and Religion; the Ruskin School of Art. The Division has over 500 members of academic staff, approximately 4,100 undergraduates (more than a third of the total undergraduate population of the University), 1,000 postgraduate research students and 720 students on postgraduate taught courses.

The Division offers world-class teaching and research, backed by the superb resources of the University's libraries and museums, including the famous Bodleian Libraries, with their 11 million volumes and priceless early book and manuscript collections, and the Ashmolean Museum of Art and Archaeology. Such historic resources are linked to cutting-edge agendas in research and teaching, with an increasing emphasis on interdisciplinary study. Our faculties are among the largest in the world, enabling Oxford to offer an education in Arts and Humanities unparalleled in its range of subjects, from music and fine art to ancient and modern languages.

The Humanities Division has embarked on a major building project on the Radcliffe Observatory Quarter, following the recent announcement of the £150 million gift to create the Stephen A. Schwarzman Centre for the Humanities.

The Schwarzman Centre will serve as a dynamic hub dedicated to the Humanities. The building will bring together seven Humanities faculties, the Humanities Divisional Office, a new library and significant cultural and public engagement spaces in a space designed to encourage experiential learning and bold experimentation through cross-disciplinary and collaborative study. The Faculty of Philosophy will move to the Schwarzman Centre upon the completion of the project.
